

THIS IS TOP NOTCH AIR FIGHTING FEAT

Lieutenant Rene Fouck
Brought Down Six German Planes in One Day.

PARIS, May 13. — (Correspondence of The Associated Press) — Lieutenant Rene Fouck, the young French "ace of aces," fought three distinct battles in the air when, on May 8, he brought down six German airplanes in one day. His record never has been equalled in aviation.

All three engagements were fought within two hours. In all Fouck fired only 56 shots, an average of little more than 9 bullets for each enemy brought down; an extraordinary record in view of the fact that aviators often fire hundred of rounds without crippling their opponent.

The first fight, in which Lieutenant Fouck brought down three German machines, lasted only a minute and a half and the young Frenchman fired only twenty-two shots.

Although Lieutenant Fouck is officially credited with bringing down 42 enemy airplanes in all, military aviators believe that he has sent down at least 60 machines. He is twenty-four years old, is cool in battle and handles both machine-gun and airplane with great skill.

Fouck was leading two other companions on a patrol in the Moreuil-Montdidier sector on May 8 when the French squadron met three German two-seater airplanes coming toward them in arrow formation. Signaling to his companions, Lieutenant Fouck dived at the leading German plane and, with a few shots, sent it down in flames. Fouck turned to the left and the second Hun followed in an effort to attack him from behind, but the Frenchman made a quick turn above him and with five shots sent the second Hun down to death. Ten seconds had barely elapsed between the two victories.

The third Hun headed for home but, when Lieutenant Fouck apparently gave up the chase and turned back toward the French lines, the German went after him and was flying parallel and a little below, when Fouck made a quick turn, drove straight at him and sent him down within a half a mile of the spot where his comrades hit the earth.

This ended the first engagement. Several German observation balloons had been brought down by French aviators. Lieutenant Fouck returned to his camp and waited three-quarters of an hour for the Germans to learn of that fact and send their chase planes to the scene of action. Then he, with two companions went out to meet them. Above Montdidier, he came upon a German plane which was regulating the enemy artillery fire, dived 2,000 feet and sent the German plane to earth with a few shots. Taking refuge in a cloud Fouck lost his two companions. Emerging from the mist to start for his own lines, Lieutenant Fouck saw before him four single-seater Pfalz airplanes protected, at 1,500 hundred feet above, by five German Albatrosses, making for the French trenches with the convoying planes leading. In a ten-second fight, Fouck overtook the rear Pfalz machine, fired and saw it fall.

At the sound of his gun, the two Pfalz machines in the center of the German group turned, one to the right, and the other to the left to attack the daring Frenchman, but Fouck drove his airplane swiftly ahead, and overtook the fourth Pfalz machine. A few shots under its tail sent it down in flames and the victor flew off to safety, leaving the two other Pfalz and five Albatrosses wondering what had struck the squadron.

The air fights were staged from 4,500 to 6,000 feet up. The first German fell at 4:05 p. m. and the last at 6:55 p. m.

Lieutenant Fouck used an ordinary Spad machine equipped with two rapid fire guns. He has been a pilot since 1915, passing into a chase squadron about a year ago. On the day following his six victories he was made an officer of the Legion of Honor and subsequently was promoted first lieutenant.

GUNNERS WORKING UNDER GAS ATTACK.

In the present attempts of the Hun to pierce the allied line with their powerful thrusts, the allied gunners have been playing a stellar role. Though gas attacks are constantly being employed by the Germans, the gunners with the aid of their marks have been working at times for four hours at a stretch under heavy gas bombardments, being relieved only when wounded and carried behind the lines. Note the camouflaged protection overhead to hide them from aerial attacks.

THE YOUNGSTOWN TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES is prepared to accommodate a large class of students for the coming school year. The school is well equipped to give a thorough course in the required branches of Nursing, such as Medicine, Surgery, Obstetrics and Pediatrics. A course in dietetics is given under the direction of a Graduate Dietitian. A graduate Nurse instructor who has had much teaching experience and special training at Teachers College, Columbia University, has charge of the various branches in theory and nursing. The Hospital furnishes excellent laboratory experience in all departments. Courses in Chemistry and Bacteriology are given by the Director of the Pathological Laboratory. All practical work and demonstrations are supplemented by comprehensive lectures given by the Hospital Staff of Physicians and Surgeons. A Social Service Department in connection with the Hospital adds to the value of the course for those who desire to prepare for Public Health Nursing. Applications should be made in person or by addressing the Director of Nurses, Youngstown Hospital, Youngstown, Ohio.

A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Miss Kelly Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Newark, N. J.—"For about three years I suffered from nervous breakdown and got so weak I could hardly stand, and had headaches every day. I tried everything I could think of and was under a physician's care for two years. A girl friend had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she told me about it. From the first day I took it I began to feel better and now I am well and able to do most any kind of work. I have been recommending the Compound ever since and give you my permission to publish this letter."

—Miss FLO KELLY, 476 So. 14th St., Newark, N. J.

The reason this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, was so successful in Miss Kelly's case was because it went to the root of her trouble, restored her to a normal healthy condition and as a result her nervous system was disarmed.

Children's Summery Dresses For Party and For Play. New Styles and Practical

About the prettiest lot of juvenile frocks that we've set eyes on. They are the dresses that growing girls need every day throughout the summer. Mothers will quickly despair of making at home their daughters' dresses half so good looking and half so good. Voiles, Organdies, Linens, Piques and Gingham all play a part in their make-up. Sometimes two or more of these fabrics are combined in one dress.

There are hand embroidered guimps and tuckled skirts and flit lace trimmings and crochet buttons. There are organdie dresses in short waist and tucked skirt fashions; voile hand embroidered or smocked frocks of surpassing beauty. There are gingham dresses in a great variety of styles and color combinations. Novel pockets and collars add much to their attractiveness.

We could tell of ever so many more—$1.75 to $12.50.

Summer Cretonnes of Distinctive Patterns and Dependable Quality

Even in the more inexpensive cretonnes there are many designs which you will not likely find elsewhere, and every piece of Hartley cretonne is to be relied on in weave and in dye, for long service.
